OpenServ

Head of Blockchain LONDON, UK · REMOTE

- Joined in August 2025 to lead blockchain for OpenServ, a full-stack platform for building and operating autonomous AI agents, powered by the SERV token — with a mandate to ship faster and harden the stack.
- Built the Base side of OpenServ's token launchpad on Aerodrome, live from January 2026 — agent tokens trade in Aerodrome Slipstream concentrated-liquidity pools, with the liquidity locked long-term.
- Worked on the launch mechanics and fee flows for those Base launches, with trading fees shared between creators and the protocol.

Eliza Labs THE COMPANY BEHIND ELIZAOS

Head of Engineering LOS ANGELES, US · REMOTE

- Led engineering at Eliza Labs, the company behind elizaOS — the open-source AI-agent framework (formerly ai16z) that topped GitHub's global trending charts in early 2025.
- Led development of Auto.fun, a no-code, pump.fun-style launchpad for AI agents on Solana, launched in April 2025 — and was its #2 contributor, with 696 commits.
- Introduced its "fairer than fair" token model: creators launch and buy in one transaction — up to half the bonding curve before anyone else — and keep earning through Raydium liquidity NFTs.

- Built Area 6545, the ecosystem portal where holders soft-stake Walkers and Eggs, gas-free, to earn OOZE — the game's off-chain currency.
